To prove that her friend did not kill his parents, Holly enlists the help of a clairvoyant

Reviews of the Spirit Seeker by Joan Lowery Nixon

Another gift for our granddaughter, so I'm not reading it. I hope she will like it as this is supposed to be a good book.

This book is about the investigation of the murder of Holly Campbell's boyfriend's parents. Holly's father is a detective, and her boyfriend's name is Cody. One day she finds out that Cody's parents have been murdered. It was a homicide, so no one knows who did it. Holly's dad is investigating the case. After they have gathered some information about the murder, they suspect that Cody has something to do with it. Holly becomes biased and tries to convince her dad that her boyfriend is completely innocent. After trying so hard to convince her dad, she starts to think about the case, and all the suspicions of Cody killing his own parents. Then she starts to have these visions, and finds out that she is a clairvoyant. Meaning that she possesses the gift to have premonitions. All the evidences add up and she comes to term that, Cody has killed his parents. Cody's parents were rich, so she thought that he would kill them for the money, so that was her motive. After this she becomes distant with Cody, even though he needs all the help and support he can get. Then she notices that he does need her help, so she becomes close to Cody again, even though he is suspected for killing his parents. As these visions build up, she has one where she goes back in time, and sees Cody's parents being killed. This freaks her out so she seeks help to a psychic. She then finds her way and learns to deal with her new gift. One day, Holly and Cody were at his uncle's house (where he has been staying since the murder) and his uncle, Frank confesses to killing Cody's parents. Frank did it for the money, out of jealousy, and greed. Cody is there dumbfounded; his uncle pulls out a gun. All of a sudden Holly's dad shows up and shoots Frank from behind. After that, they all find out the truth, that Cody is innocent. He has a sigh of relief, but he still has to live with the fact that his parents are gone.

Joan Lowery Nixon is the best! How she mixes the perfect amount of humor, love, suspense, and fear all into one book astounds me! "Spirit Seeker" is among the many, awesome thrillers delivered by Ms. Nixon. Keep 'em coming!

"Spirit Seeker" is about a girl named Holly Campbell. She has a huge problem! Her best friend -- Cody -- has just been accused of murdering his own parents! Her father is the lead detective on the case, and even he can't deny that all the clues point to Cody. He left his house after a heated argument with his parents, then returned later around the estimated time of death. Holly is positive that Cody wouldn't commit such an evil act, but how can she prove it?

At the scene of the crime, a strange woman named Glenda Jordan stops Holly. She claims that she's a clairvoyant and can see things (that she hasn't physically seen) in her mind. At first, Holly thinks that Glenda is bogus. But then again, why does she call her "Amber Girl?" After all, lately her amber hairpin has been glowing strangely with heat. Can she really help Holly find the murderer, or is she just wasting her time?

I thought this book was good. Nixon has definitely written better. Strictly judging on mystery, I'd actually rate it poor. It had a more clairvoyant, fortune-teller, mystical feel to it (which in the end, turns out to have helped very little). I also think the main character could've dug deeper into the problem, instead of just insisting Cody was innocent. Unlike Nixon's others, there is no stalker, no detecting, and no surprise ending. Plus, Holly's endless, stubborn theory of Cody's innocence gets to be annoying....Overall, I still think it'd be worth your time!

Also recommended: "Name of the Game Was Murder," "Who Are You," "Nobody's There," and "Other Side of Dark," all by Joan Lowery Nixon! :)

Genre: Mystery

Three Sentence Summary: A couple has been murdered and their only child, a boy named Cody is the main suspect in the case of their murder. Cody is scared and confused and his best friend Holly wants to prove him innocent. Can she do it or will Cody be convicted of murder?

What I liked most about this book: I loved the mystery of this book, it was so intense that you got caught up in it and felt like you were inside the story.

Why I didn't like it and why: There wasn't anything about this book. It had an amazing problem with a great and logical solution.

My favorite character and why: My favorite character was Holly because she believed her friend was innocent and never lost faith in him.

The scene, line, or passage that meant something to me and why: Pg number 43: "I know what your thinknig but you've got to believeve me, I didn't kill my parents". That passage meant something to me because those were the words of a boy who was in his own way crying for help but no one believed him.

What I would say about this book to someone else: I would suggest this book to anyone who asks because the mystery is great and the suspense is real.

One question I have after reading this book : What does Cody do in the end?

My strongest reason for recommending this book: It is an amazing book that keeps your attention until the end. It's pretty much one of those" I can't put this down until I finish it kind of books.
